As a Board member you'll be at the forefront of protecting and enhancing our natural environment, using your skills and experience to steer the overall direction and performance of SEPA.

With multiple appointments available it's an exciting opportunity to shape the future of our environment.

Tackling the twin challenges of the climate and nature crises requires strong leadership and influence. We need passionate individuals that can bring new thinking and experience to help bring people together to drive the change needed to deliver for Scotland.

We want our Board to reflect the diversity of the country we serve and value all aspects of diversity including gender, age, background, ethnicity and education, in our decision-making.

In addition to an enthusiasm to achieve environmental objectives, we're looking for people with skills in analysis and decision making and communication, collaboration and influencing. Could this be you?

Find out more about the opportunity by visiting the dedicated hub on the SEPA website.
