Application for temporary Abstraction (water scarcity)
Under Water Environment (Controlled Activities) (Scotland) Regulations 2011 ("the CAR Regs").

You should use this application form if you require a temporary abstraction during a period of water scarcity.

Please tick which applies to this application.

- A new authorisation for surface water abstractions of more than 50 but less than or equal to 2000 m3/day
- A new authorisation for groundwater abstractions of more than 50 but less than or equal to 2000 m3/day
- A new authorisation for surface water abstractions of more than 2000 m3/day
- A new authorisation for groundwater abstractions of more than 2000 m3/day

1. GENERAL GUIDANCE

Why you might wish to switch the source of water use for irrigation from rivers to groundwater?
During periods of water scarcity there is likely to be pressure on rivers and on available water supplies for irrigation use. Where possible, switch any current authorised surface water abstractions to a groundwater source using "Application for variation: Switching irrigation from river abstraction to groundwater abstraction (water scarcity)" form. If this is not possible there may be some limited scope to authorise a new abstraction for a temporary period to help alleviate the water scarcity.

Notes:
A temporary licence to abstract water is only valid for the remainder of the year or until conditions recover to normal (if sooner).

If a longer term, year on year licence is required an application must be made for a normal abstraction licence. Further information on this and how to apply can be found here.

A temporary abstraction licence, if granted, will be limited to a proportion of the flow available at the time of application. If the watercourse is under stress or already significantly impacted by other abstractions SEPA may not grant your licence application. Please speak to SEPA in advance of submitting your application.

Groundwater Abstractions:
You must inform SEPA annually of the quantity of water abstracted each day from the borehole as part of your annual data return.

The borehole construction must not have a significant adverse impact on, or cause pollution of, the water environment.

Drilling fluids may be introduced into the borehole if necessary to facilitate the drilling of the borehole provided this does not result in pollution of the water environment.

Potable water may be introduced into the borehole to test the hydraulic properties of the aquifer.

SEPA cannot guarantee the suitability of the aquifer or yield from any borehole.

Borehole abstractions close to the coast may draw in salt water. You should be aware of this risk.

Surface Water Abstractions:
SEPA cannot guarantee the yield from any surface water abstraction point.

All Abstractions:
Water leakage must be kept to a minimum by ensuring all pipe work, storage tanks and other equipment associated with the abstraction and use of the water are maintained in a state of good repair. Please also look at Advice for Abstractors.

For further information on water scarcity visit our website.
2. GENERAL ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

The surface water abstraction or borehole used for abstraction must meet the following criteria:

Note: Prior to the commencement of works, you are advised to consult the owners of any private drinking water supplies in the vicinity and assess the potential impact of the proposed works on those private drinking water supplies.

a. Daily abstraction volumes must be recorded and reported to SEPA no later than 31 December using the ‘Data returns Form’ on the Abstractions page of the SEPA website (www.sepa.org.uk).

b. A meter must be installed and operating before abstraction can commence.

c. The method of abstraction must not involve impounding the watercourse or digging a sump in the watercourse.

Groundwater specific eligibility criteria

d. The borehole must be more than 250m from any surface water or wetland.

e. The borehole must be more than 400m from any other abstraction (including private drinking water supplies)\(^1\).

f. The borehole must be less than 200m deep.

g. Where a new borehole is constructed a dip tube and sample tap must be installed for monitoring purposes.

h. A meter must be installed and operating before abstraction can commence.

i. The construction of the borehole must avoid the entry of pollutants or water of a different chemical composition into the body of groundwater.
